DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Members of the court of burgesses, selectmen and representatives of the town of Danielson (West Side) have a meeting scheduled for this evening for the purpose of discussing just what procedure shall be adopted in carrying out the wish of the people to bring before the Public Utilities Commission the matter of the proposed increase in rates by the Crystal Water company. Killing's selectmen have become interested in this important question, so the conference planned for this evening will be representative of all the territory served by the Crystal Water company.

Through an error an item that appeared in the Danielson news of Saturday announced the death of John Birch, of Providence, instead of the death of Mrs. John Birch. The Birch family formerly were residents in Danielson.

Providence dealers who have representatives regularly in this territory for the purpose of collecting live poultry were on the job bright and early Monday morning in order that their purchases may be heavy this week, when there will be a big demand for dressed poultry in the Providence market.

John Gilchrist, a mill worker, aged about 65 years, died suddenly Sunday at the boarding house where he had been making his home. Mr. Gilchrist had been suffering with indigestion, it was indicated from tablets found in one of his pockets and the indications of a heart attack. A weak heart. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. Though Mr. Gilchrist had been employed in this mill for many years, little of his history is known. Mr. Kennedy communicated with the telephone with the police department at New Bedford had learned that Mr. Gilchrist has a sister living in that city.

Pupils at Killingly high school are having their Easter vacation this week. The graded school here is in session, however, as the pupils there were given a vacation at the end of an eight week period, recently.

At the post office Monday box holders found that their mail included some literature promoting the sale of treasury certificates. Uncle Sam still has attractive offerings in the investment line for those who are thrifty and like to be certain that their money goes into very safe investments.

At industrial place the program for providing new housing facilities is going steadily forward and a number of new rents will be available for tenants at the very best of prices.

However, that no matter how many new dwellings are erected, the demand is always greater than the supply. Good year, which now has one out of 25 dwellings in the way, is set during the next few weeks. These houses are intended to furnish quarters for the operatives of the big new mill at the amount of propaganda or cheap remuneration that people on one side of the question are better than people on the other side—contrary to human nature—is going to serve one who to divert the people of the town of Killingly who have a right to vote next fall from registering their will and wishes. Annotating one's self doesn't do many people much of the time in this part of the twentieth century.

Many of those who have been among those being uplifted are going into the uplifting business on their own account this year. The rest rest promise to be interesting, to say the least.

This will be a week of prayer for many Danielson people who do not vertax themselves with worry over their spiritual well being during a greater part of the year. Nightly church services this week will serve to give ample opportunity to devote time to consideration of matters other than of a temporal nature and every denomination has religious services which will leave nothing to be desired in the way to find a place to take account of one's self.

The fact that conditions of high-ways change very materially in 24 hours, usually for the worse at this time of year, should serve to warn motorists that reports of a highway being in "good" condition may prove to be decidedly unfounded when they get out on the road with a car after reading a promising forecast. The wise motorist is riding in Windham county today only over highways that he is certain are good and is not attempting any long trips.

State Automobile Inspector R. C. Young has received instructions to warn drivers of motor trucks operating in this section that they must not run the big vehicles at more than 15 miles an hour—the limit fixed by law for such vehicles—and that they must limit the loads to the amount set down in the statutes. This action is to be taken to save the state highways from being utterly ruined.

Cemetery sextons have work cut out for them during the coming month. In addition to the regular spring work, which always keeps them busy, they will have in this and surrounding towns more than 100 graves to dig. Since early in the winter very few graves have been opened in any of the cemeteries in this part of Windham county and most of the receiving vaults are crowded to their capacity with bodies. Here in Danielson, at two cemeteries, there are 20 bodies awaiting burial. At Westfield cemetery the work of interment already is underway.

The work of removing an old barn that long has been an eyesore to people passing through Academy street is well advanced. The barn was in the rear of the public library building and on what is called the Ellinghaus property. The cellar of the barn is to be filled in and the area in the vicinity graded, so that the general appearance of the locality will be materially improved.

While only remnants of the snow and ice that has been going away for the past three weeks are to be seen in Danielson at the present time, there are some sleazy snow banks along the state and country highways and aid the roads, in places, snow to more than a foot in depth remains.

Judge and Mrs. M. A. Shumway, who have been spending the winter in California, have returned to their home here.

The first three months of 1920 demonstrate that Killingly people continue to save money, the high cost of living notwithstanding. Savings deposits here have grown materially since the first of the year.

Rev. Clarence H. Barber, for years pastor of the Westfield Congregational church and a former president of the Connecticut Temperance society, is critically ill. Rev. Mr. Barber has been in poor health for a number of years.

Tomorrow, March 31, has been set as the limit for filing bids for the construction of sewers recently authorized by the borough.

Prudent heads of households here in Danielson already are filing their applications for gardens in which they hope to grow vegetables that will help them fighting the increased cost of living.

John Lusk, who is to be the paying teller at the Danielson Trust company, has been putting in some time there, and will be released from his duties as principal of the Danielson graded school within a short time, as a successor to him in that position has been obtained.

PUTNAM

If, up to the beginning of the present week, one had an abiding faith in the truthfulness of town clocks, it would have been jarred Monday if he happened to live in Putnam.

At noon by sun time, as many call it, it was either 12 o'clock, or 1 o'clock, depending upon which particular "town" clock a person gazed at in this normally well balanced city, and the average man, and woman, too, looked on and pondered.

The daylight saving plan, as it has been inaugurated here this season, has slipped several cogs, and emergency measures to offset the confusion that has resulted were being taken Monday.

There was significance in the gleth which visitors from Pomfret, Woodstock, Killingly and other towns flashed their watches at one and insisted that they had the right time—the so-called "sun-time"—and that they clock on the tower of the Second Congregational church, showing daylight saving time, was jolting Putnam people along. Manifestly the visitors from the agricultural sections hereabouts don't like daylight saving time. They had one on Putnam Monday, but matters will be adjusted, it is now indicated, so that everybody will be more or less satisfied and business will not be upset.

Warren Ames, representing the Putnam Chamber of Commerce, said Monday afternoon that the business men here agreed to keep open stores during the present week on the "old" time. Most of the mills, too, are sticking to the old schedule of time measuring, but there will be a change next week, when, it is now expected, the mills and stores will adopt the daylight saving time.

Very few people are observing the daylight saving plan here yet, though one or two industries and some groups of workers went on the new schedule Monday morning.

It happens to be unfortunate that Putnam is the only community in this part of the county that has decided officially in favor of daylight saving, but an adjustment that will fix a standard time for all of this territory is to be looked for at an early date, when more towns, especially those that are industrial centers, will take up the daylight saving plan.

The dual standard of time here was responsible Monday for some amusing occurrences and of others that were not so funny.

Take, for instance, the case of a child born between midnight and 1 o'clock Sunday. There's bound to be an argument over his birthday some students of this great question will tell you.

Judge George E. Hinman has authorized the issuing of an injunction in the case of Victor Pelouquin vs. Julian Pelouquin, which is now before the court here during the March term.

The property mentioned in the following memorandum of decision is located on Providence street, this city, and the plaintiff and defendant also are residents:

It is found from the evidence supplemented by a personal inspection of the locus by the court, made by agreement of the parties, that the stairway in question was built subsequent to, instead of previous to, November 15, 1904, and hence was not in existence at the date of the conveyance from defendant to the plaintiff's grantor.

If the fee of the entire passageway between the buildings was in the defendant the question as to whether the stairway constitutes an obstruction to the reasonable or proper use of the passageway would be, to say the least, much more doubtful than it is under the existing conditions. However, since the boundary line between the buildings is approximately in the center of the passageway as it existed at the time of the grant, and the erection of the stairway leaves but three feet nine inches of clear space between the outer side thereof and defendant's boundary line, less than one-half of the reasonable width of a driveway, although ample space remains between the buildings and the stairway, the effect of the erection of the stairway is to divert the burden of the driveway largely onto plaintiff's land. For this reason I consider said stairway an obstruction to which an injunction should properly be granted.

No damage was proved and none is claimed.

An injunction may be issued as prayed for and counsel may prepare and submit a form of judgment accordingly.

Costs may be taxed in favor of the plaintiff.

Gordon Miller, of Norwich, the brakeman who was injured while working in the railroad yards here Saturday night, was reported Monday afternoon as resting comfortably at the Kimball hospital.

Mr. Miller was badly injured when he fell from a car after being struck by a freight car. He was taken to the Kimball hospital where he is now resting comfortably.

Trolley patronage has been quite satisfactory since the service was resumed, it was said here on Monday, but it is to be noted that the officers of the road would like to see a good start has been made, however, and as travel increases with better weather here have grown materially since the first of the year.

Mrs. George W. Kilborn, who underwent a surgical operation at the Day Kimball hospital Sunday, was reported Monday as resting comfortably.

Mrs. James M. Gilmore has presented a fine framed picture of General Nelson A. Miles to Anselm Mayotte post, American legion. This picture will be hung in the quarters of the post and members of the organization are hopeful that they will be more than a foot in depth remains.

Feeble Old People

Gain Strength and Vigor rapidly on Vinol, our Cod Liver and Iron Tonic.

Vinol contains the very elements needed to replace weakness with strength, just as it did for this New York man.

"I am 74 years of age and got into a weak, run-down condition as a result of the grippe. Our druggist suggested Vinol to build me up and I noticed an improvement soon after, taking it, and it has restored my strength so I can now do a good day's work. My wife has also taken Vinol for a run-down condition with splendid results."

NOTE:—Your leading druggist has for many years specially recommended Vinol because he knows there is nothing better than this famous Cod Liver and Iron Tonic to create strength and build one up. The formula of Vinol is on every label.

Your money back if it fails.

Engler's Broadway Pharmacy, North Bertha's Pharmacy and druggists sell Vinol. It is sold in Danielson by Principal George Shafer of the Normal school at Willimantic was in Thompson Monday with a view to creating interest among the girls there who are completing their high school course this year in entering the normal school. Principal Shafer has been heard on this subject in Putnam and will soon speak in Danielson.

There seems to be a great deal of interest in the town of Thompson in an initiative which is a cooperative proposition with the Connecticut Agricultural College. Mr. Baker and Mrs. Nichols, town directors of the Farmers' Association, and the workers of the Farmers' Association, co-operating. Following is the program for the meeting:
